Class Description: This Spanish class is designed as an introductory course for beginners, The students will establish a strong foundation and promote future success in Spanish learning for years of study to come. My program is a multi-sensory methodology. Gestures, singing and acting, for example, meet the needs of kinesthetic learners. Visual images, Illustrations, props, puppets, live actors, etc, satisfy the needs of visual learners. Students will develop “a real ear for the language”, learning to listen and respond to what sounds right. One of the techniques I use is “the spiral method” which tries to keep concepts and vocabulary learned at the top of the student’s mind. This is achieved by continuously reviewing the concepts and vocabulary taught, while adding new words; this process helps to build a solid foundation for students to continue to build upon. The overall objective of my program is to develop listening and speaking proficiency.
